HAWTHORN AT LEXINGTON

KENTUCKY DERBY FAVORITE GOES TO MEET HIS RIVALS IN BLUE GRASS STAKES.

Trainer Trevey Supremely Confident of Ability of His Charge to Make Good His Claim to Championship Honors—Kentucky Gossip.

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—When he left Louisville today for Lexington with his horse, Hawthorn, W. S. Trevey, it is a certainty, could not help but think of what Green B. Morris, the dean of the turf in this country, said to him when he heard that he was going to ship the Kentucky Derby favorite to Lexington to race in the Blue Grass Stakes, on May 3, against Helios, second choice in the Kentucky Derby to be decided May 10, at the Downs, Foundation and other horses. Mr. Morris observed: "Son, let me give you a piece of advice. Have your horse mightily well greased when you bring him here, because they are going to run him, son; they are sure going to run him."

Trainer Trevey, before loading Hawthorn into the car, declared that he never felt more confident of the horse's success than he does at this time. He said that the Lexington folks are displaying a considerable loyalty to Helios and Foundation, which is a local characteristic surprising no one. He had nothing further to say except that Hawthorn is the best three-year-old in America, is in condition, and will prove his claim to being a champion, not only at Lexington, but in the Kentucky Derby, and in the Derby at Latonia.

Hawthorn was a picture as he started, what his trainer declares, will be a triumphant tour as a three-year-old. Standing sixteen hands and a shade less than three inches in height, with his long, graceful neck arched, his eyes akindle with the spirit of a thoroughbred, his step as nimble and as quick as it could be, he showed in his 1,400 pounds of bone and muscle that he is close, at least, to what Trevey says he is—the best three-year-old in training on the American turf.

Hawthorn will be called upon to meet in the Blue Grass Stakes such horses as Helios, Foundation, Brookfield, Ballyshe, Donerail, Yankee Notions, Prince Hermis, Gowell, Christmas Star, Clinton, Merlin, Nash Cash, Kimmundy, El Palomar, The Under and Chit-on-King. In this list are many Kentucky Derby eligibles. The race is, in fact, a preliminary to the Kentucky Derby, and the result will have, in all probability, its bearing upon the outcome of the great classic at Churchill Downs.

At Churchill Downs today the Derby candidate His Majesty worked a mile and an eighth in 1:58, pulled up. He went the first eighth in :12, the quarter in :25, three-eighths in :37, the half in :50, five-eighths in :54, three-quarters in 1:17, seven-eighths in 1:30, the mile in 1:43, and a mile and a sixteenth in 1:52. He was paced during the last five furlongs by Bunch of Keys. At Douglas Park the Derby candidate Leechmore went a mile in 1:41. It was an evenly rated performance.

The fastest two-year-old work at the Downs was by L'Aiglette, trained by Dan Lehan. She went a half in :48, running the first three-eighths in :25, the quarter in :40, the half in 1:04, and a mile and a sixteenth in 1:50. Other work-outs were:

All Red—Mile in 1:50.
Buckhorn—Mile in 1:47, cantering.
Hylk—Half mile in 50%; first three-eighths in 36%.

J. B. Maylow—Half mile in 48%; first three furlongs in 35%, and five-eighths in 1:04, pulled up.
Jim Basye—Half mile in 50%; five-eighths in 1:06, pulled up.
Manson—Half mile in 49%; first three-eighths in 36%.

Semprite—Half mile in 49; five furlongs in 1:04, pulled up.
Wentworth—Half mile in 50%.
Wilfred D.—Half mile in 50%; first quarter in 24%.

C. F. Grainger, president of the New Louisville Jockey Club, arrived home today after a ten-day vacation spent at French Lick Springs. Among the visitors at the springs—and they were there from everywhere—he heard no end of racing gossip about thoroughbred racing prospects in Kentucky and New York. He says that interest in the Kentucky Derby is widespread.

W. E. Phillips will ship to the Downs in a few days the only horse he now has in training, it being the two-year-old chestnut filly Isabella Viley, by English Lad—Bessie Welles. Mr. Phillips has five yearling colts, the product of his Illinois breeding farm. Four are by English Lad and one by What-er-Lou. The latter is a chestnut out of Elcith, by Locolath. Those by English Lad are a bay colt out of Bessie Welles; a bay colt out of Fernory; a bay colt out of Lindisella, and a bay colt out of Duella. All of these mares have been mated with English Lad.

Lexington, Ky., April 22.—Trainer W. S. Trevey arrived at the Kentucky Association course from Louisville this morning with Hawthorn and his stable companions, Blue Jay and Rudolfo. The big son of Hastings shipped in good shape and will have his first work-out over the local track on Thursday morning, when jockey J. Loftus will be here to ride him. Trainer Trevey said that he had not definitely made up his mind whether or not Hawthorn is to have a race in advance of the Blue Grass Stakes, which will be run one week from Saturday, and in which trainer Trevey says Hawthorn is certain to start.

Lou Cahn arrived from Louisville with George Oxnard, Mocker and Sleeth, of the J. C. Cahn string, and Tay Pay, Al Bloch, Susan R., Anna Patricia and Summerhill, the James MacManus stable, which he will handle here for trainer O. A. Bianchi, who remains in Louisville with other horses.

In Frank Weil's string are Any Port, Old Rosebud, Della Mack, Hattie Mack, Ida Lavina and Barbara Lane.

J. W. Schorr has decided not to send any of his horses over from Louisville, and Lew Marion has also concluded to remain at Louisville with Prince Hermis.

Robert L. Baker's Anna Bain foaled twins, a colt and a filly, by Ben Brush, at Kingston Farm a day or two ago. At the same farm yesterday, Anthem, the property of the James R. Keene estate, foaled a chestnut colt by Delhi.

The horses are now being sent along in earnest for Saturday's opening, and some fast trials are likely to be recorded in a day or two.

NESTOR OF THE ENGLISH TURF DIES.

George Hodgman, Who Saw the Liverpool Grand National Run Sixty-Eight Times.

A man long famous and widely known in connection with racing, English and American, died suddenly at Warrington, Lancashire, Saturday, April 5, after having been in attendance at Liverpool to view the running of the Grand National Steeplechase. Concerning him and some points in his history, "A Sport Correspondent" wrote in London Sporting Life of April 7:

"Death came to George Hodgman as he would have it come—swift, dramatic. For he lived in a world that was one great drama. His life was picked all over with adventure. You might say that he took his chances and won. He lived long, wondrously long. He was but one year short of ninety when his long winter ended. We called him the Father of the Turf. He was something more; he was an institution; and he was, as you may expect, a picturesque personality. He belonged to another world, an age long passed, and yet he was possible even in these changed and changing times, for he was keen, alert, and no doddler; his memory, even almost to the last, was wonderfully clear. Perhaps when you fell to exchanging ideas that meant dipping into days long gone, he was not quite so sure; but a little nudge, just a little prompting, and the old man would tell you stories crowded with facts and splashed with color that were amazing."

"With just a little exaggeration you could say that everybody knew him. He was inseparable from the turf. He was self-made, not remarkable for polish, as polish is many times understood, but he had the gift of assimilating any amount of knowledge about many matters, so that he was well informed in the broad sense of the term, for he was observant; nothing that was likely to matter escaped his notice; he memorized everything that was likely, that counted, and that was likely to count. It was as recently as the Easter meeting at Kempton, which this year, as you know, was permitted to open the flat, that I saw and chatted with him. It was hard to believe that he was within twelve months of being ninety years old. His eyes were bright; he carried himself with almost a touch of jauntness; you forgot the wrinkles that were cut deep; if one had not known him as intimately as I did one would have said there goes a tremendously fit, hard, old man."

"Top-hatted, pilot-coated, his face fringed with white hair, he stood out high above everybody else at Kempton; and I should say that there was no man more interested in making himself as fair with anything that was happening. He would dare to criticize this and that, always in a kindly though not apologetic way, for he was certain of his own judgment to the very last. And when the news came to me on Saturday that death had carried him off, it was hard to believe that 'Hodgy,' as most of us were wont to call him, was no more."

"He was a sort of living text-book on men and matters of the turf and a greasy book filled with stories. Years ago he was induced to write a book to which he gave the title of 'Sixty Years on the Turf,' a most interesting book edited by the late Mr. Charles Warren, who spent a part of his newspaper career on the 'Sporting Life.' There is set out in its pages most of the principal incidents of Hodgman's life, but it does not tell, as it could not be expected to tell, everything."

"George Hodgman's life was more interesting, more varied, more daring, more speculative than it could be represented to be by cold print. It was only when you got the old man in some quiet corner and let him talk in a plain, blunt, brusque and pointed way that you could appreciate what a really remarkable character, even astonishing character, he was. Last Friday was the sixty-eighth Grand National he had seen, which I should say is an absolute record. Hodgman won our greatest chase with Emigrant in 1857; and it was because of his success at Liverpool perhaps that he was more keen and more vitally interested in steeplechasing than in races on the flat, though he was a very big bookmaker in a substantial way. He lived for racing, he lived in racing; racing had always been for him; it was his passion, his joy, his life."

"It is given out that he was born at Stevenage, Herts, where he had a peasant background, but whether Stevenage was his birthplace or not I should not like to say. At any rate, when he talked with about his youthful days he always fastened upon Stevenage; at least he used to say that it was while living at Ramsgate that he had his first real set-off, and it was at Ramsgate that he had his first bet. 'I was very young at the time,' he would say, and he was not averse to confessing that the first jump he ever made was in a little while, and his way was got by an extraordinary chance. A man who posed as the 'athlete that mattered' came to Ramsgate, and announced that he would jump all comers for a wager. I saw him perform, and he was a good jumper, and I was very much down on him as a result of card playing. Land found it absolutely necessary to raise the wind, and told Hodgman of the perilous state in which his finances were, at the same time telling him that he was not averse to paying a week or two of his wages in advance. It was just like Hodgman that he came to possess Emigrant in a way romantic. It was in 1855 that he turned up at the George Hotel, Shrewsbury, and hit upon Ben Land, who was very much down on his luck as a result of card playing. LEADING AMERICAN SIRE SINCE 1870.

This table gives the names of the thoroughbred stallions standing best in the matter of money earned by their sons and daughters on the American turf in the years from 1870 to 1912, inclusive, together with the age of the stallion, the number of winning get, the aggregate number of races won by them and the total of their combined winnings.

But once in this period of forty-three years has a sire whose get won less than $50,000 stood at the top, and that was in 1877, when Lexington took honors with $41,170. Imported stallions have ranked first in nineteen out of the forty-two years. Four of the are in the table were themselves winners of more than $100,000.

Beginning with 1870, Lexington was seven times at the head of the list of American sires, a distinction achieved by no other. Lexington, Glenelg and Hanover each led four times and Bonnie Scotland, Hastings, Kingston, Meddler and Star Shoot twice. In the seven seasons that Lexington's name heads the list, his get won a total of $565,189; in Glenelg's four years his get won $405,277; in Hanover's four years his get won $434,725, and in Bonnie Scotland's two years his get won $239,175. In Meddler's two years his get won $373,798. In amount of money won in a single year, Commando has the honor, his progeny winning in 1907, $270,345. His great son, Colin, was responsible for the major portion of this vast sum. Next to Commando stands Himyar, his grand sire, through the success of Domino, the sire of Commando, in 1893. The stallion record from 1870 to date is:

Albert, a bay horse foaled in England in 1882, by Albert Victor—Hawthorne Bloom, died at the Adelsberg Stud Farm of Messrs. Williams & Radford, near Hopkinsville, Ky., January, 1910. Age 28.

Kingston, brown horse, by Spendthrift—Kapanga, foaled in 1884, and bred by James R. Keene, died at the Rancho del Paso Stud, near Lexington, Ky., December 6, 1912. Age 28.

The other stallions in this list of leading sires are still living. Hastings, brown horse, foaled in 1863, by Spendthrift—Cinderella, is at August Belmont's Nursery Stud, Meddler, bay horse, foaled in 1890, by St. Gatien—Busyboddy, stood for some years at Clarence H. Mackay's Kingston Stud, near Lexington, Ky., but has been sent to France along with the select broodmares of the Kingston Stud. Hamburg, bay horse, foaled in 1895, by Hanover—Lady Reel, is at Harry Payne Whitney's Brookdale Stud, Brookdale, N. Y. Ben Brush, bay horse, foaled in 1891, by Bramble—Roseville, is at the late James R. Keene's stud, near Lexington, Ky. Star Shoot, chestnut horse, foaled in 1893, by Isinglass—Astrology, is at John E. Madden's Hamburg Place farm near Lexington, Ky.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Jockey Kederis has arrived at Lexington and will ride on the Kentucky tracks.

W. H. Rowe, registrar of the Jockey Club, is recovering from a serious attack of sickness.

At the Maisons Lauffite course in France, on Friday last, J. E. Widener's Roi de l'Or won the Prix de Pont Carre, ridden by Joe Byrne.

The death of the three-year-old bay gelding Loving Moon is reported at the Rancho del Paso Stud, where he won several races last winter. He was the property of Trammell & Gray.

The stewards at Havre de Grace have issued the following temporary licenses: Trainers—W. D. Alt-house, W. H. Carson, V. A. H. Smith, Ky. Star Shoot, John Burly, M. Walker, D. Miller, W. Martin, J. S. Merchant, Woods Garth. Jockeys—A. Wilson, J. Mulligan, William Knapp, W. J. Meacham, William Burns, A. Matthews and C. Turner.

NESTOR OF THE ENGLISH TURF DIES.

"That's all right; half is for us," Tobolski won by a short head. Wells riding a splendid race, but as we had to pay $3,500 out and came within a shade of losing $2,500, I did not think a great deal of owning horses.

After Emigrant's victory in the National, Hodgman subsequently tried to win long races with him on the flat, like the Ascot Gold Cup and the Cesarewitch, but found one game did not dovetail with the other. By the way, about the National I remember asking Hodgman what the Liverpool course was like in his early days. The fences, I recollect him saying, were quite as large as now, but not so well looked after; they were more rough, and wanted more doing. I have said that last Friday was his sixty-eighth birthday. As a three-year-old he was a successful Nationalist; for about twenty years ago he missed one owing to an attack of typhoid fever. Hodgman had a weakness for 'V's,' and rather suggested in the naming of many of his horses Sam Weddell.

"I once asked him to explain why the 'V.' His explanation was a very shrewd and simple one: it served to him as a ready reference. In other words, when he had to refresh his memory he found all his horses bunched together. In addition to winning the National, he was a three-year-old in staying grant he had, however, one called Rocket, and others such as Confederate and Paul Jones; but there was quite a string of horses the first letter of whose names were 'V.' For instance, Victor, Vest-minster, Vagrant, Vindicator, Viceroy, Ven, Vix, and Vica. He loved to talk about his 'V's,' but I should say that he regarded Paul Jones as the best horse he ever had.

"Paul Jones was by Buceancer out of Queen of the Gipsies, by Chanticleer. He only gained one success in ten races as a two-year-old, in 1867; that was the Mile Nursery at Goodwood, where he defeated two dozen others, starting favorite at 5 to 2. And winning by a neck, as a three-year-old, in the Trial Stakes at Epsom, Spring Meeting prior to the Chester Cup. He was, I should say, the hottest favorite of that race, as in a field of seventeen runners as little as 6 to 4 was accepted. The colt was ridden by Jeffery, whom Hodgman and his many friends were pleased to call the 'Steam Engine.' Paul Jones was third favorite for Blue Gown's Derby, but did not get into the first four. Hodgman's greatest disappointment was in St. Leger. Having tremendous faith in Paul Jones, he was equal to the occasion and won. But Hodgman always thought Fordham made a mistake in holding Fordham too cheaply. There is one little story I should like to tell about Victor. Victor had been bought him for $825, and declared that when he took him he had never seen a horse in a worse state. In fact, he told his groom he had better cover the horse's head with a sack, and then perhaps I can see what he's like. It was a lucky purchase, however, for Victor won many races.

"Talking about luck, at times it simply showered upon Hodgman. He won fortunes and lost fortunes, for there was nothing he loved so much as a down-right gamble. As I have said, he knew everything, and everybody knew him. He was a great character, and now he has gone Lord Coventry is the oldest living owner of a Grand National winner."

VIRILITY OF THOROUGHBRED STALLIONS.

It is generally admitted by those experts who have been able to decide the point by practical tests and critical observation that the power of transmission decreases in stallions at the age of nineteen or twenty. A good deal depends, however, on the use and abuse of service, as, for instance, in the case of a horse that has been raced much, through accident, and, although retired to the stud, had not many mares in his first few seasons.

The practice of sending young stallions to stud early has not met with marked success. Some of them break down as three-year-olds seldom do much good if their first stud season is too severe. Breeders learn by experience, and the belief that stallions should be given good time to develop to more maturity before being put to stud purposes is generally general among those qualified to form an opinion. They know that fertility is a doubtful quality with those stallions that were used a lot in their young days at the stud; old stallions improve in this respect, if the inferior powers have not been taxed by too strenuous stud work.

It is a curious phase of the problem of breeding that old stallions indicate a tendency with age to transmit staying power; it is probable this idea is illustrated by the stock of the sprinter, especially in the success of his sons Sunstar and White Star, etc., at distances for which they were not hereditarily suited. But the theory is faulty, as the dam, Boris, would naturally have a big say in the matter.

The deterioration observed in young stallions, in respect to worse fertility, is attributed to those that have been raced a lot or for a long time. For instance, a stallion retired at the close of his year-old career, with a record covering, say, twenty or more races, should be allowed at least one complete season to recuperate before his stud duties should commence; and it would be all for the better if then the stock of the sprinter were selected less than the ordinary total, restricting the services until the horse is fully matured. The change from the race track to the harem is sometimes too sudden to be beneficial.

Reverting to the opinion expressed that the virility of stallions is at its highest prior to the age of sixteen or twenty, it is by no means a positive certainty that this can be accepted as a general rule, for such an age is not a sound argument, if I quote a few examples to show that the heredity power may not be impaired at a later age. Some modern instances can be cited in the case of Hampton.

Winner—Br. c. by Martine—Savay (trained by H. Marshall). Went to post at 2:41. At post 3 minutes. Start good and slow. Won driving; second and third the same. GORDON began slowly on the outside and was carried wide on the turns, but responded resolutely and strongly ridden finish and outgated WOODEN SHOES in the stretch drive. WOODEN SHOES moved up rapidly on the stretch turn and appeared the winner, but was tripped at the end. BULGAR took the lead quickly and set a fast early pace, but gave way in the stretch. MISS WATERS closed a big gap and finished fast. THE UCHIN only ran fairly well.

Scratched—(7787) Sonny Boy, 112.
Overweights—The Uchlin, 1 pound.
